Rodney Collman, AIA

Rod Collman, AIA, LEED AP, has designed many public buildings including Art Centers and Museums, Libraries, Churches, Community Centers, Sports Complexes and other public service facilities, earning numerous prestigious honors and awards. He also specializes in corporate facilities and office design, technology/secure data storage, manufacturing, clean room environments and warehousing.

Collman began his career in architecture in 1968 with Fasnacht and Schultz Architects in Dunedin, which evolved into Collman and Karsky Architects. After selling his interest in Collman and Karsky Architects in late 2014, Collman and Gary Badders of Shorelines Design Group opened sdg Architecture in Dunedin, Florida, to continue his work in Public and Commercial Architecture.

Examples of Public Projects

Dunedin Community Center, Dunedin, FL

Rod Collman designed the 55,000 s.f. Dunedin Community Center to accommodate the recreational activities, arts and cultural events, and educational and meeting space required for the growing city's needs. It was the first public facility to receive a LEED Certification of Silver for "Leadership in Environmental and Energy Design".

Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church, Dunedin, FL

In 1975, Rod Collman completed construction drawings for the new Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church in Dunedin. In 2014, Collman was chosen to design a new church interior, nave and sanctuary platform by Our Lady of Lourdes and the Catholic Diocese of St. Petersburg. The chancel platform is completely redesigned, new flooring in the nave is made of porcelain tile and new chancel furniture pieces are the work of Brandon artist Candace Knapp. New wood pews, railings, chairs, a sound system and updated toilet rooms were part of the project, completed in January, 2015.

Dunedin Historical Museum Renovation and Expansion, Dunedin, FL

Project includes an interior renovation of the existing 3000 s.f. museum. A former 1920's era train station earlier converted for museum exhibits, storage and administration, the building was fully renovated and expanded by an additional 644 s.f. for a new entrance/reception area with a gift shop.

Largo Public Library, Largo, FL

Rod Collman's team was chosen to design a new Largo Public Library for their ability to produce a design of "architectural significance" within their budget. The resulting 90,300 square foot facility includes a program/meeting room wing with a coffee shop that is designed for public access after library hours. The complex also features a children's reading room and program rooms, a teen suite and the library administration wing. It won an IIDA Award in 2005 and is LEED Certified (FGBC).

Dunedin Fine Art Center, Dunedin, FL

Rod Collman has played a leadership role in every design project for the Dunedin Fine Art Center since the first building was designed in 1969. Four expansions and renovations since have completed the center's 1995 Master Plan, resulting in a 44,000 s.f. visual art center and children's art museum, the largest non-profit art center in the southeast U.S. It is an AIA Award Winner and is LEED Certified (FGBC).

Religious Architecture

White Chapel

The White Chapel, a 1920's era Palm Harbor, Florida building, saw a historic reconstruction on its way to becoming a popular wedding chapel. It features a Bride Room and Groom Room, vintage stained glass windows and a newly added 100 person meeting hall. Renovations and addition design were created by Rod Collman and staff.
